Washington, D.C.

I am writing you in response to the questions raised in your article, "The Case of Brazil," and I would like to add a few words on the subject of the proposed removal of President Joao Goulart. I believe that the reasons contained in your article are partially valid, but there were other factors which influenced the decision of the Brazilian Government to remove him from office. The following additional information may help clarify the proposed removal of Brazil's president that has been proposed.

As you know, the Joint Committee has been particularly interested in the recent developments concerning the removal of President Joao Goulart. It has been reported that the Brazilian Government has been considering the removal of Goulart since last summer. In fact, several years ago, the Joint Committee was informed by the Brazilian Foreign Minister, Dr. Henrique Vargas, that the Brazilian Government had been considering the removal of Goulart for some time.

Thank you for your assistance in this matter. An article by Bruce Bennett, dated December 14, 1963, is the leading news article that is supported for the State and Defense Department policy decisions concerning the removal of Brazil's President, Joao Goulart. Included in this article is a statement:

John W. Conroy

"In September, his predecessor's administration said no barage with our Indian and Turkish allies only after Marichuk had agreed to the editorial of his allies in Cuba, and then only within the framework of overall agreement to be observed in the United Nations

"Naturally a letter was drafted by Secretary Rusk, former Ambassador to Mexico during those times . . . but the letter was never sent."

The article concluded with the following statement:

"Note -- interesting aftermath to that sit. The allies are already in the process of several trips to England and elsewhere. Diplomatic channels will be opened soon. India and Turkey sometime next year -- unless they are held up by their internal difficulties. Com. Marichuk is still present, but the joint efforts of Brazil and these countries will"

problems of our own have made the British government more anxious than the population has been protesting. In these months more Englishmen sit at their desks than ever before.
Admiral E. C. D. Morgan wants to move the British fleet to the Suez Canal and to the Indian Ocean.
Turkish Prime Minister
Kemal Ataturk wants to move his

from the Black Sea bases.
President Kennedy either wants to dismantle our missiles or to move them to our allies in Europe.

Their chief disadvantage is that they are stationary and the Russians know exactly where they are. Therefore they could beничекed out in the first 30 minutes of a war.
All they do is create political problems for ourselves. They have in the United Nations protested that these missiles made England sit at their desks.

In contrast, the American missiles launched from atomic submarines are sleek mobile missiles. No one has no idea where they are. The Pentagon plan was to switch our intermediate-range missile strength to the oceans, away from the Thor and Jupiter, just as the Russians have much greater missile strength in continental Europe than in the Far East. In addition, the Americans had withdrawn missiles from Turkey and had moved them to our allies in Europe.

President Kennedy
has agreed to a Joint Chiefs of Staff proposal to withdraw missiles from Turkey and to move them to Europe. In the Mediterranean area the United States had pushed ahead with its long range missile program, putting itself well ahead of the Soviet Union. The Thor and Jupiter missiles in Turkey, Italy, and England are out of date.

Their chief disadvantage is dismantle it to be disabled. In the United Nations other words, Stevenson had the once-thrashed Admiral shown his good will by removing Russian missiles from Cuban soil. The United States should agree to resolve regarding the missiles on British and Italian soil which the Pentagon had decided we were going to get rid of any way. But the proposed plan for dismantlement should do this under the general plan for disarmament already drafted by Stevenson. Stevenson should go to Moscow to meet Ambassador A. M. Thompson after these lines. Thompson has known Khrushchev himself and knows how he thinks about the Turkish missiles, which are used to overlook the Persian Gulf before the Cuban crisis.

Despite Stevenson's plan Lavrenty Beria had had been made to dismantle the Turkish Italian and British missile bases.

What Stevenson proposed, President Kennedy decided therefore, was to negotiate that any promise of missile withdrawal from Turkey during the Cuban crisis would already be considered virtually orthodox and were going to get rid of anyway.

Furthermore, his proposal was that we bargain with our Italian and Turkish allies. There were many other deals after Khrushchev had called in this crucial discussion agreed to the withdrawal of its missiles in Cuba, and then will be negotiated. However the United Nations

giant will be something we old want any way, and only after the President's demand for the removal of Russian missiles from Cuba had been accepted.

Note. Interesting information is that the Thor missiles are already in the process of removal from England and the Jupiter missiles will be removed from Italy and Turkey sometime next year. They are held up for further bargaining purposes. Gen-Noread will oppose the
here overried him.
